

Dear FCC Commissioners and Chairman Powell,
The television broadcasters have clearly not served the public interest this election season. Instead, they have made enormous amounts of money from political advertisements that distort the issues and alienate American citizens from even voting in elections due to the negativity of partisan ads.

We need programming about critical issues that is balanced and unbiased. This is especially vital in the election season.

Our democracy is at risk. The FCC has the opportunity to educate our citizenry by using this public resource in the public resource.

Sincerely,

Sy Knackstedt
